Executive Summary

Purpose of Report

In November 2022, the Government of the Province of Ontario passed Bill 23 (amended by Bill 185), which made changes to the Ontario Heritage Act that will remove all non-designated properties from the Municipal Heritage Register on January 1, 2027. Heritage planning staff and the Heritage Advisory Committee have been reviewing properties on the Municipal Heritage Register for designation under Part IV of the Ontario Heritage Act.

The purpose of this report is to recommend that Council publish its intention to designate 240 Woolwich Street pursuant to Part IV, Section 29 of the Ontario Heritage Act. The cultural heritage significance and heritage attributes of the property are described in this report.

Key Findings

240 Woolwich Street is listed as a non-designated built heritage resource on the City of Guelph’s Municipal Register of Cultural Heritage Properties under Part IV, Section 27 of the Ontario Heritage Act.

A property may be designated under Part IV, Section 29 of the Ontario Heritage Act if it meets two or more of the criteria used to determine cultural heritage value or interest as set out in Ontario Regulation 9/06 (as amended by Ontario Regulation 569/22).

Heritage planning staff, in consultation with the Heritage Advisory Committee, have completed a Cultural Heritage Evaluation Report and statement of significance. Staff have determined that the property at 240 Woolwich Street meets six of the nine criteria used to determine cultural heritage value according to Ontario Regulation 9/06 (as amended by O. Reg 569/22) under the Ontario Heritage Act. Therefore, the property merits individual heritage designation under the Ontario Heritage Act.

Statement of Significance

The property known municipally as 9 and 7 Norwich Street West were built before 1862 as two semi-detached dwellings. Cooper's Map of the Town of Guelph of 1862 shows a building footprint only in the southwest portion of Lot 24. The buildings known today as 1, 3, and 5 Norwich Street West and 240 Woolwich Street were added shortly after to create the Barclay Terrace. The Bird's Eye View of the Town of Guelph shows the entire Barclay Terrace in 1872 (Figure 6) and Cooper's revised map published in 1875 shows a larger building footprint fills the entire Lot 24.

On October 30th, 1867, the Guelph Evening Mercury's building operations reported that James Barclay, a prominent Guelph building contractor, had constructed a stone house and store on his property near Davidson's Marble Works. The next year, an advertisement was placed by a resident of "Barclay's Buildings" indicating that they were situated near the corner of Norfolk and Norwich.

The properties of Barclay Terrace appeared on the Fire Insurance Plan of the City of Guelph in 1881 and 1892 indicating a store at 73 Norwich St (what is now 240 Woolwich Street and 1 Norwich St W) and residences at 75, 77, 79 and 81 Norwich St W. When the Fire Insurance Plans were revised by 1911 the corner property was indicated as a millinery or women's hat shop and addressed as 238 Woolwich St.

James Barclay was born in 1826 in Abercorn, Scotland and emigrated to New York City in 1849 where he apprenticed in carpentry before moving to Hamilton, Ontario around 1853. Soon after, the family came to Guelph to avoid the cholera epidemic and Barclay served as Captain of the first Guelph Battery of Garrison Artillery during the Fenian Raids (Figure 7). James Barclay became a prominent Guelph building contractor whose projects in Guelph included: the Drill Hall in 1866; Armstrong & McCrae Company's Woolen Mill in 1867; and a three-storey commercial building on Wyndham Street in 1869.

In 1877 Barclay received the contract for the construction of the Manitoba Penitentiary in Stony Mountain. This penitentiary building remains today as Canada's oldest operational federal prison and Barclay is remembered as a Memorable Manitoban by the Manitoba Historical Society Archives, primarily for his role in its construction.

When he passed away on February 9th, 1912, at 85 years old, James Barclay passed his share of the title to Lots 24 and 40 to his daughter Robertha Barclay. Robertha was unmarried, so the terrace was likely intended to provide her with an income. Like her father, Robertha did not reside at the property but rented it out to tenants. Robertha retained ownership of the Terrace property until 1933 when it was sold to Reta Armstrong.

Building Description

240 Woolwich Street is the northwest half of the 2-storey, semi-detached, residential building built at the corner of Woolwich St and Norwich St W as part of the Barclay Terrace. The building is built with roughly squared, local limestone and has been designed with Georgian architectural style in a side gable roof form. The front wall (facing Woolwich St) has cut limestone quoins at the corners. Flat arches of solid stone lintels are over each window and door opening. The current six-over-one window sashes are not original. The stonework of the three exterior walls is finished with rectilinear, white tape pointing. The four-bay façade of 1 Norwich St W and 240 Woolwich St has a mirrored effect with smaller, coupled windows flanked by larger, tripled windows. Both properties have their separate entrance door in the gable end walls.

The prominence of the Barclay Terrace at the corner of Norwich Street West and Woolwich Street has been identified as part of Guelph's central residential area of the 1860s-1880s. Barclay's Terrace fronts on Norwich Street West at the corner of its five-point intersection with Norwich Street East, Norfolk, and Woolwich. In 1930, Vernon's City of Guelph Directory listed Five Point Grocery at what is now 240 Woolwich Street. This property sits at a vergence between the radial plan of the downtown commercial core, and the residential grid.

Determination of Cultural Heritage Value

240 Woolwich Street, as part of Barclay Terrace, is worthy of designation under Part IV, Section 29 of the Ontario Heritage Act because it meets six of the nine prescribed criteria for determining design and physical value, historical and associative value, and contextual value, as per Ontario Regulation 9/06 as amended by 569/22.999

Design/Physical Value

The subject property meets Criterion 1 as it is a representative example of a Confederation era building type with Georgian style constructed in local limestone as part of a row or terrace building form.

The subject property meets Criterion 2 because the building has high physical integrity in that it has retained most of its original exterior architectural design features in limestone and displays a high degree of craftsmanship.

Historical/Associative Value

The subject property meets Criterion 4 because it has direct associations with a theme of historical mixed use involving local corner stores with housing attached – a combination that was conventional in many of Guelph’s residential neighborhoods since the establishment of the town and in some cases continuing into the first half of the 20th century.

The subject property meets Criterion 6 as it demonstrates or reflects the work of James Barclay, a prominent nineteenth-century Guelph builder.

Contextual Value

The subject property meets Criterion 7 because it is important in defining, maintaining or supporting the character of the historic Norwich Street West and Woolwich Street streetscapes in the downtown area.

The subject property meets Criterion 8 because it is physically linked to its surroundings as its façade is an integral part of an uninterrupted block face of the Barclay Terrace on the northwest side of Norwich Street West at Woolwich Street.

Heritage Attributes

The following elements of the property at 240 Woolwich Street should be considered as heritage attributes in a designation under Part IV, Section 29 of the Ontario Heritage Act:

Building form, including:

- Original two-story, two bay, semi-detached building form with medium pitched roof and side gable end wall
- limestone exterior walls and cut limestone quoins
- location and opening shapes of the original door and windows
- flat arches over each front window opening built with solid limestone lintels
- limestone window sills
- stonework in façade finished with rectilinear, white tape pointing
